Treasury Secretary Says New Program To Reach Into Every American Home.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., warning that war is cheaper to win than lose, today asked congress to double income taxes of persons earning $10 000 a year or less and increase other levies to raise an additional $7,600,000,000 annually in war revenues

The administration's "victory" tax program calls for taxing soft drinks one cent a bottle, increasing the whisky tax from $1 to $1 50 a quart, hiking the levy on a 15-cent package of cigarets from 6½ to 8 cents and doubling the present gasoline tax of 1½ cents a gallon.

Morgenthau described the stiff cut in the earnings of all Americans to the house ways and means committee which will draft the new bill.

"The new taxes will be severe, and their impact will be felt in every American home," he said.

"War is never cheap; but... it is a million times cheaper to win than to lose. . . . Our task is to make the tax program an instrument of victory."

He urged that congress levy these annual increases in taxes.

Individual income, $3 200,000,000, corporation, $3,060 000 000; inheritance and gift, $330,000,000 and excise, $1,340,00,000.

Another $680,000,000 would be realized by taxing income from state and municipal bonds—both existing and future issues, by requiring husband and wife to file a joint return and through plug-

British Told Food Situation Causing Anxiety.

LONDON —(INS)— A strong warning that Britain's food position is causing anxiety and that the nation must tighten its belt was issued by an authoritative British spokesman today

"We are passing through a special period of anxiety regarding food supplies and distribution," the spokesman said.

"The substantial decline in food imports is due chiefly to the complexity of the shipping situation.

"Reserves have been built up and the nation will be adequately fed. Neither health nor morale will suffer But we are facing a most difficult period and we have got to do without some of the things we are getting today, and perhaps reduce some existing rations"

CITY SHOVELS AS SNOW PILES UP

High Wind Complicates Job of Clearing Streets, Sidewalks.

By DOROTHY HAINER
(12-B Hyphonerian Reporter)

Winter staged a come-back today accompanied by snow and a high wind that put Mansfielders and the rest of Richland county to clearing sidewalks and highways of the drifts that started piling up early this morning

Nearly an inch of snow fell during the night making it necessary for the workers in the city street and county highway departments to start cindering streets and highways early.

County Engineer Howard Sword said today that while he expected the current cold snap won't be the last, there was a likelihood that the amount of damage caused to county roads by ice and snow would be lower than last year.

The weather will continue to be moderately cold and windy according to weather forecasts after dropping from a high of 34 yesterday to a low of 25 The snow fall was registered at nine-tenths of an inch.

Old-timers attributed the sudden change in the weather to the eclipse last night while others just laid it to the expected roar of the March lion

Crestline Sailor Missing In Action, Relative Informed

Close on the heels of an announcement that a 21-year-old Ashland county soldier had been killed in an army ambulance crash in Louisiana, Crestline residents learned today that a 24-year-old sailor from Crestline had been reported "missing in action"

A. D. McKellar, Crestline, received word from Washington, D. C., late yesterday that his nephew, Finch Clemens, 24, a machinist's mate, first class, was missing.

Young Clemens had been a sailor in the U. S. Navy for the past six years and was believed to have been stationed on a destroyer, operating out of a New England port.

The Washington message stated that any further information would be relayed to the missing sailor's uncle later. The missing sailor was a native

Nelson Orders 25 Per Cent Boost In All Machine Output

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—An immediate speedup in arms production to an output even greater than President Roosevelt's goal was ordered today by war production Chief Donald M Nelson

Stressing the desperate urgency of the war situation, Nelson called for around-the clock production to boost output 25 per cent on all existing machines and launched a four-point promotion campaign for full labor-management cooperation

As outlined by the production chief in a radio address over the radio Blue Network last night, the campaign involves:

1 Establishment of joint labor-management committees in each war plant to direct production "up to and beyond the president's goals."

2 Assignment of production quotas to each primary producer, with day-by-day scoreboards in each shop,

3. Awards of merit to workmen 'making special contributions to greater production,"

4. Speeches and other reports, by soldiers and sailors who use the weapons, to the workmen who build them.

Nelson called upon labor leaders to go the limit in adjusting differences without stopping production and asked management to remove any causes of just complaint by workmen.

To businessmen "who whine that Washington hasn't done enough for them" he issued this reply. "Where is your initiative? Where is your enterprise?"

Draft Boards Get Orders To Assign 200 To Army Service

By WILLIAM BEAM
(12-B Hyphonerian Reporter)

Two of Mansfield's three draft boards—Numbers 1 and 3 today received calls for induction of a new contingent of draftees in the Army during the last week of March.

The third board, No 2, is expected to receive a similar call tomorrow. The three boards will send approximately 200 more 1-A registrants who passed recent physical examinations at Fort Hayes

The new group of inductees—fourth from Richland county since entry of the United States in the war, will go to the Army reception center at Fort Hayes for assignment to replacement or training centers.

As customary no intimation is given as to where the Richland county inductees will be sent for training Many of the last group which left Mansfield for Columbus were assigned to Camp Polk, La, where the Army's 7th Armored Division was officially established last Sunday.

While official word still was being awaited today, an informal opinion was expressed by a draft board official here that the group

Service Director Now, Wolff Resigns From Rationing Board

By BRUCE GRAVES
(12-A Hyphonerian News Editor)

Fred B Wolff, who yesterday assumed the post of Mansfield's service - safety director, tendered his resignation today as a member of the local rationing board.

Wolff wrote James Bailey, chairman of the local board and Richland county tire rationing coordinator, that he was resigning because he had accepted the position of service director.

Bailey said that he was accepting Wolff's resignation "with deep regret" and that he had been a "very efficient member of the board, always willing to do more than his share, and was very just in his decisions."

This was Wolff's first full day as service director. Yesterday he arrived at the city hall after C. M. Crafton, who left after learning that the mayor had ordered removal of his name from the city payroll. Crafton said he considered the order as a notice of discharge. The mayor maintained that Crafton had resigned.

Bailey conferred today with Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the civilian defense committee, and with Mayor Locke, on the Twenty strong, the high school journalists descended on the News-Journal city room and advertising office bright and early — about 8 o'clock — and from there on they got their taste of publishing a daily paper.

Accustomed to a more leisurely practice of issuing a newspaper every two weeks, they had their hands full But it was a lot of fun, they agreed

Two Torpedoes Hit Craft In Waters Off Cape May; 9th Naval Ship Lost.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy announced today that the destroyer Jacob Jones was sunk by an enemy submarine off Cape May, N. J., before dawn on Feb. 28 and that only 11 men of the destroyer's crew survived

The number of those lost, including the commanding officer Lieutenant Commander H. D Black of Oradell, N J, was not given but was far more than 100 since the normal war time complacement of the old destroyer was around 1?5 officers and men

Two torpedoes hit the Jacob Jones The first one blew up the bow and apparently killed all personnel on the bridge as well as men sleeping in the forward living quarters of the ship The second torpedo blew up the stern and all the depth charges.

The 11 survivors consisted of nine enlisted men from the engine room and two apprentice seamen

Of the 11, only one man was outside the amidships section when the stern was blown up. That one was in the after engine room

In its communique reporting the sinking, the navy said that neither the enemy submarine nor the torpedo was sighted prior to the first hit.

After the first hit blew up the destroyer's bow, the submarine circled ahead of her and fired the torpedo which caused the terrible explosion of the depth charges in the stern.

The Jacob Jones was the ninth naval ship lost so far in the war, including the Reuben James which

DIES IN KENYA

Former Viceroy To Ethiopia Was In Line For Throne.

NAIROBI, Kenya — (INS) — The Duke of Aosta, former Italian viceroy of Ethiopia, died today at the age of 43 He had been a captive of the British since he surrendered at Amba Alaji, Ethiopia, with 7,000 troops.

The surrender occurred May 19, 1941.

The duke had been suffering from tuberculosis for some time.

If he had lived he might eventually have sat upon the throne of Italy He was third in line to his cousin, King Victor Emmanuel.

One of Italy's tallest men, he was once mentioned during the course of the Spanish civil war as a possible occupant of a restored Spanish throne. That was a behind-the scenes court plan, however that never developed beyond the talking stage.

Invading Ground Forces Are Held At Standstill By Dutch, Allies; 30 Enemy Warships, Transports Sunk Or Hit In Battle.

BULLETIN

BANDOENG, Java—(UP)—The Dutch and their allies have the situation "well in hand on all fronts," an authorized spokesman said today in commenting on operations against Japanese invaders of Java.

(By Associated Press)

BANDOENG, Java, N. E. I.—The Japanese invasion of Java has been at a standstill since Sunday, the Indies high command announced today, but enemy air raiders smashed at this headquarters city of the Dutch command in a mighty attack in which 102 persons were killed or injured.

Most of the bombs fell in the vicinity of the airdrome and the Japanese evidently were trying to immobilize one by one the places from which spring the United Nations' air offensives against their invasion.

The raiders came over in fighter-escorted relays of bombers for one and a half hours this morning, holding their formation despite heavy anti-aircraft fire and the fearless attacks of enormously outnumbered United Nations fighter planes

Although 42 enemy bombers and 18 protecting fighters were overhead at once officials said military damage was slight. Abandoned homes near the airfield were destroyed and, during bombing lulls, the enemy fighters dived to machinegun the streets

Although word had been current that a huge new invasion armada, bearing heavy reinforcements toward the island's shores, was being battered by relays of American fortress bombers, the Aneta news agency said that up to 7 p. m. (8 30 a m. EWT) nothing

RUMOR: Wavell Shift Hinted As Paving Way For MacArthur

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic circles were rippling with speculation today that reshuffling of the Far Eastern high command paves the way for the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander-in-chief of the United Nations forces in the Pacific southwest

Washington observers believe that the retirement of Sir Archibald Wavell to the India command presages MacArthur's removal from the Philippines to lead the Allied armies against the Japanese drive to conquer Java, Australia and New Zealand

A joint Allied announcement said that Wavell had returned to the India field operations and that he had been tentatively succeeded by Gen Hein Ter Poorten, head of the Dutch army MacArthur's brilliant tactics in the Philippines have thrilled the world, and repeated demands have been made that he be removed from Bataan and given a larger sphere of action in the Far East battle area

Diplomatic sources believe that the return of Wavell to India is simply the first step in a reorganization of the high com-

UNPRECEDENTED: Nazis Say Reds Launch Biggest Attacks

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—The Royal Air Force reported today that Axis bombers attacked the Suez canal area during the night and were intercepted by British night fighters. It was the first report of an Axis attack on the Suez canal region in some weeks.

(By Associated Press)

Massed Russian attacks "on a scale not hitherto reached in the war" were reported by a German military spokesman today, while Adolf Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that the Red armies were unleashing powerful new assaults along the entire 1 200-mile front

Fresh details were lacking on the battle of Staraya Russa, 120 miles south of Leningrad, where survivors of the German 16th army estimated at more than 90 000 troops were reported caught in a gigantic Russian encirclement.

The Nazi high command cited "strong attacks" on the Crimean and Ukraine (Donets river) fronts and "numerous enemy attacks" in other sectors of the long battle line

The high command said the attacks were either "frustrated" or repulsed after bitter fighting.

A Berlin military spokesman said the Russians were marshaling prodigious forces all along the front and attacking at times in 40 or 50 waves regardless of casualties.

These statements were relayed to Switzerland and Sweden, in apparent contradiction to the Axis policy of minimizing rough going. A Berlin dispatch of the Zurich newspaper Die Tat stated that Russia obviously was starting "a fantastic effort to bring about a decision."

A dispatch from Moscow said that streams of Russian soldiers marched through the capital on their way to join the front-line campaigners.

whatever was known to support such reports.

The communique announced that a large Japanese tanker had been sunk off the Java coast and that Allied bombers had scored direct hits on two enemy transports of 10,000 and 8,000 tons, but made no reference to any new approach of an enemy fleet.

The new blows boosted the enemy's toll off Java to 30 warships and transports sunk or damaged.

(Ashore, a Reuters report in London from Bandoeng said the Dutch had put their defense plans into full force and that the fighting was on a major scale.)

The communique, which ended more than 24 hours of suspense over the course of the ferocious struggles at three Japanese beachheads on Java, said emphatically:

"In none of the three regions of Java where the enemy landed troops during the night of Saturday to Sunday has the enemy succeeded in advancing since the infiltration which was carried out in the course of Sunday.

At various points our troops, who are showing a splendid offensive spirit, are in close contact with the enemy."

The announcement that the Dutch, American and British defenders of Java were holding with grim tenacity on the lines they formed Sunday bolstered the confidence of Java's more than 40,000,000 inhabitants after guarded authoritative reports were only that "the action is proceeding satisfactorily" and that the invaders had taken "hard blows."

It meant that the Japanese, who were reputed to have set 60,000 to 80,000 men ashore, had failed thus far in their obvious attempt to cut the 622-mile-long island into three parts.

One column, which had knifed in from a landing on Indramajoe bay in a drive menacing Bandoeng, still was stalled some 30 miles from here.

A second force had advanced 16 miles inland from Rembang to the region of Blora on the coastal railroad about 85 miles west of Soerabaia.

The third, in the Bantam district of westernmost Java, about 60 miles from Batavia, evidently never struck far inland.

U. S., British Fliers Strafe Japanese

MANDALAY, Burma—(U.P.)—British and American planes bombarded and machinegunned Japanese positions today along the Sittang front in an attempt to stop a Japanese encircling movement to cut off Rangoon from the north.

(In London a British military commentator reported that no large Japanese forces have crossed the Sittang and that if Japanese troops have crossed the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad they are small patrol forces. The All-India radio, heard by CBS quoted British army headquarters in Burma as reporting that only small scale skirmishes occurred on the Sittang front and that fighter and bomber formations of the RAF attacked Japanese troop concentrations "with good effect.")

The Japanese attack on Rangoon appeared to have been slowed materially by the air action.

However, it was known that the Japanese were bringing reserves up to the Sittang and are attempting to send a flanking wing north which would isolate Rangoon.

American airmen returning to southwest China from Rangoon asserted "the whole Berma situation is an awful mess" and that the "main resistance" to the Japs is the American volunteer group. One pilot said there were "only looters and corpses" in the capital.

Japs Shell Three Philippine Ports

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The war department announced today Japanese naval forces are shelling ports on three islands of the Philippine archipelago in an apparent effort to extend their occupation.

The shelling was reported in a war department communique which said that the Japanese already are landing troops at the port of Zamboanga on the southwest tip of Mindanao from a convoy of four transports escorted by a cruiser.

The communique said the city is aflame, presumably the result of bombardment.

Other Japanese naval units, the department said, are shelling several ports on other islands.

Japs Attacking Australia Bases

MELBOURNE, Australia —(U.P.)—Japanese planes, extending their offensive zone to the northwest coast of continental Australia, attacked the Broome and Wyndham air bases today and damaged both towns, a communique of the Royal Australian Air force said.

At the same time, Japanese plane formations, renewing their attack on New Guinea off the northeast coast, bombed the towns of Bulolo and Wau. Damage was reported on buildings but apparently there were no casualties.

Machine guns and cannons spitting, the planes swept down on Broome and Wyndham airdromes, attacking installations and grounded planes, and shots damaged both towns, the communique said.

It reported that bombs were dropped on Broome.

The attacks were made almost simultaneously by two Japanese plane fleets.

Dutch Move Their Government Inland

LONDON — (AP) — The government of The Netherlands East Indies has been moved from Batavia inland to Bandoeng, where it joins military headquarters, Dr. W. G. Peekema of The Netherlands ministry of colonies announced today.

He declared Java could not hold out much longer unless reinforcements arrive.

"We have suffered terrific losses and the chances of reinforcement are rather slight," said the official of The Netherlands government-in-exile here.

"No country in such a situation as Java is now can hope to hold out indefinitely."

Dr. Peekema declared air reinforcement was "absolutely essential" for prolonged resistance.

Make Sweeping Victory Claims

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—(INS)—A Japanese communique claimed today that six United Nations cruisers, eight destroyers, seven submarines, one gunboat and one minesweeper have been sunk in naval battles off Java between Feb. 27 and March 1.

(Editor's note: There was absolutely no confirmation of this fantastic Japanese claim from any responsible source. Latest word on United Nations ship losses from Java said four warships had been lost off Java with a fifth damaged. Two of the vessels lost were Dutch cruisers and two were Dutch destroyers. The damaged vessel was a cruiser.)

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — The federal Bureau of Investigation office reported today that a 16-year-old Miami county boy who admitted trying to derail a 65-car Pennsylvania freight train is being held by Troy authorities.

The FBI said that Miami county juvenile authorities have been asked to handle the case of the Covington, O., boy who confessed that he piled a split tie and angle irons across a rail near his home last Sunday.

However an east bound train traveling 55 miles an hour was able to hold the track, Raymond C. Suran, FBI agent, said he had learned of no motive for the act.

mand that will eventually see the inspiring American general as the commander-in-chief.

Richard Casey, Australian minister to the United States, and representatives of the New Zealand government have made repeated requests for immediate American military aid to their nations, now facing Japanese invasion. Observers in the nation's capital believe that if and when further American aid is sent to the southwest Pacific, American officers will be there to lead them, furthering the speculation that the high command shakeup will make MacArthur the man to direct future operations.

Meanwhile at home, high army officials moved to carry out an executive order for a sweeping reorganization of the war department designed to streamline the nation's military forces in preparation for the eventual offensive against the Axis powers on all fronts.

Effective March 9, the reorganization will place a score of war department bureaus under three simplified units, air, ground and service of supply forces. Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold will be in charge of all air forces. Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair will command ground forces, and Major Gen. Brehon B. Somervell will handle the services of supply.

Wavell Shift Hints Threat to India

LONDON—(INS)—The shake-up in which Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell was transferred to his former role as commander-in-chief of forces defending India and Burma was attributed today to the grave Japanese threat to the vast British Indian domain.

The change, under which Wavell was shifted from his most recent post as supreme commander of all United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, was announced simultaneously in London and Washington.

For the time being, it was reported Wavell's headquarters have been established in Burma, where he is directing operations against the Japanese.

of 500 which was slated to go to Columbus from Richland county during the last week of March for physical examinations will not be sent until the first week of April.

Colonel C. W. Goble, state selective service director, yesterday rescinded the original call for the group to report for physical examinations. Official word is expected shortly as to a new date for the group to report.

The group of 500 will be the first from Richland county affected by the new selective service ruling calling for draftees to be inducted at the same time they report for examinations at a reception center. If recent past averages hold up, approximately two-thirds of the group will pass the examinations and remain for induction.

National draft headquarters has announced that in cases where immediate induction will cause undue hardship, the registrant will be given an immediate furlough to adjust his civilian affairs.

A local draft official suggested that since a number of the group will not pass the examinations, all in the group of 500 should resign their jobs only tentatively and sell their cars and other possessions only conditionally after receiving the notice to go to Columbus.

Was Namesake of World War Victim

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The U. S. S. Jacobs Jones, an American destroyer which was sunk by an enemy submarine off Cape May, N. J., Saturday, was the namesake of the only war vessel sunk by torpedoes during the first World war, navy officials recalled today.

Navy officials said that the original Jacob Jones, which was sunk Dec. 6, 1917, not only was the first American destroyer to be lost in the last war but the only vessel of the U. S. fleet to be torpedoed in that conflict.

Two officers and 62 men lost their lives in that sinking.

The first Jacob Jones, built by the New York shipbuilding company, was sunk during a cruise between Brest, France and Queenstown, Ireland.

The second Jacob Jones, which was lost Saturday, was commissioned Oct. 20, 1919. Its keel was laid Feb. 21, 1918, and it was launched Nov. 11 at the New York Shipbuilding campany.

Both vessels were named in honor of Jacob Jones, a hero of the war of 1812 and the campaign against the Barbary pirates.

that residents in the church vicinity have complained that the bell's have been played too loud and too long. Some have asked that the chimes be stopped under an old city ordinance. This ordinance prohibits the use of phonographs or other instruments to reproduce sounds "to advertise goods, wares or merchandise for sale."

City Solicitor L. K. Wagner, asked for a ruling by the mayor, said he did not believe that the use of church chimes would fall into the "advertising" classification but that the sound could be stopped by other city ordinances, if necessary.

Wagner suggested, however, that the chimes merely be turned down so that they wouldn't be played quite so loud.

The chimes are played at noon and in the evenings as well as on Sunday mornings. Religious and patriotic airs are played.

Meanwhile, funeral plans were being made for Wilbur Glen Snyder, Nankin, who died yesterday morning at Charity hospital at New Orleans, La., of burns received when an army ambulance in which he was riding overturned and caught fire.

Snyder's mother, Mrs. Frank Schneider, Ashland, was en route to Louisiana, rushing to her son's side, when he died. She was on the way to Red Cross headquarters there when she learned of his death.

Camp services will probably be held at Camp Shelby, Miss., according to word from military authorities, and then the body will be brought to Ashland for civilian services.

Snyder was an enlistee in Company H, 112th Medical corps, and had been stationed at Camp Shelby since October, 1940. He attended Ashland high school and was employed on a farm near Nankin at the time of his enlistment.

Surviving Snyder are his wife, the former Mary Louise Willis; his mother, Mrs. Frank Schneider; his father, Earl Snyder, Sumpter, S. C.; a brother, George Snyder, Sumpter; a sister, Mildred Schneider, Ashland; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buchanan of Ashland.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Some aspects of this war are so plainly fantastic that they make you rub your eyes to be sure that you are correctly reading print.

Take the flight of planes over Los Angeles at which anti-aircraft batteries launched such a barrage that "pursuit\ planes couldn't follow it."

Gen. Johnson.

Secretary Knox said it was a false alarm. Secretary Stimson said it was a flight of 15 or 16 unidentified commercial planes flying in formation.

Who ever heard of that many commercial planes flying in formation, or of such a state of affairs in the air that pursuit planes weren't warned through listening devices and could have permitted such an appearance, demonstration and vanishing act?

If it were not for the hysteria of war that alone was enough to cause the country to rock with Homeric laughter. I am not speaking of "false alarms." They will happen.

I am thinking of the absurd official explanation of it, seriously and deliberately given out, the generous omission of much newspaper comment on such a cock-and-bull story, the tight-lipped silence of army officers and the scarcely suppressed glee of the navy.

The silence of the army is easily understood. At about this time each one received by mail a personal order not to discuss military subjects unofficially. We are rapidly approaching a condition in which our people will know as little about what is going on as the Germans.

The contradictory statements of the two service secretaries surely indicates that they did not discuss with each other so serious a report as that of strange planes over one of our greatest cities.

That in turn makes us wonder if the failure of the high command of both services to consult at Honolulu didn't stem back to a practice or a feeling in much higher quarters. Why haven't the high commands at Los Angeles spoken?

Under our law an officer officially accused of a serious dereliction of duty is entitled, at his request, to a court martial or a court of inquiry. About the only important difference is that a court of inquiry has no power to assess a sentence. This is not a matter of favor. It is a matter of right.

Information as to whether General Short and Admiral Kimmel —or either of them—requested a court is being withheld. It is announced that they will be court-martialled when "the public interest" permits.

Why doesn't the public interest permit it now? Presumably because it might reveal the degree of damage. The Roberts commission omitted to consider that question too.

But why is it not in the public interest for our people to know the extent of our defeats? Because the enemy might know it, too?

Does anybody who has followed the course of this story, with its elaborate fifth column trimmings, suppose the enemy doesn't know as much about that as we do and perhaps much more? Horse-feathers!

The other more plausible reason for no court-martial now is that the blame didn't all rest in Honolulu—that Kimmel and Short are the goats of this fiasco.

VICTORY SUITS WITHOUT CUFFS RULED BY WPB

Pleats, Vents and Vests For Double Breasteds Ordered Out of Production.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war production board today became style arbiter for the nation with a decree permitting only cuffless, pleatless and frill-less "victory suits" to be manufactured for men and boys from March 30 on.

Ruled out entirely were two-pants suits, vests for double-breasted suits, full dress coats, the cutaway coat and double breasted tuxedo coat. Those addicted to evening wear must be content with the single-breasted tuxedo suit.

Overcoats, too, came under the order which is expected to save 40 to 50 million pounds of wool for the armed forces. They will be shorter and less full than present topcoats or overcoats, and will have no belts, cuffs on sleeves, outside patch pockets or fancy backs.

To the casual observer the only noticeable change in men's suits will be the absence of trouser cuffs, WPB said. The board feared an abrupt style change would start a buying rush for "victory suits" which would defeat the conservation aims of the order.

Suit coat lengths will be three-fourths of an inch shorter than the average now worn, and topcoats and overcoats will be two to four inches shorter—which "continues the style trend already under way," WPB added.

Merchant tailors and "tailors-to-the trade" will not become subject to the order until May 30, because most of them have substantial stocks of cut goods on hand.

The complete list of suit regulations:

1. No vests for double-breasted suits; permitted with single-breasted suits but may not have patch pockets, collar or lapels.

2. Men's coat length limited to 29¾ inches for size 37 and other sizes in proportion; boys' coats 24¾ inches for size 14.

3. No patch pockets or belts of wool.

4. No fancy back coats—"vents, belts, pleats, tucks, bellows, gussets and yokes."

5. Knee width of trousers restricted to 22 inches and bottom width to 18½ inches for a 32-inch waist. These widths are normal.

6. Inseam measurement of trousers (leg measurement) restricted to 35 inches for a size 32-inch waist, keeping normal length but eliminating cuffs.

7. No pleated, tucked or continuous (overlapping) waistbands.

Single-breasted overcoats may be 43½ inches long and 56 inches wide at the bottom for a size 37 regular with other sizes varying proportionately. Double-breasted men's overcoats may be one inch longer and six inches wider.

Barbara McDowell, Senior high school pupil filling in with the regular staff of The News-Journal this morning, confidently believed she came across the story of the century in Richland county when she called at the state highway patrol headquarters. Patrolmen told her they had just investigated 150 fatalities. As it turned out the deaths were all chickens killed when two trucks sideswiped on U. S. route 42 near Mansfield.

ALIENS TO BE REMOVED FROM FOUR STATES

Defense Chief Reveals Plan To Rid Territory of Fifth Column Threat.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — The army today declared the western half of Washington, Oregon and California and the southern half of Arizona a military area from which enemy aliens and American-born Japanese will be removed progressively to rid the Pacific coast of a potential fifth column threat.

Created in the most drastic step yet taken toward alien control, the area was designated by Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt, chief of the western defense command, under authority granted by President Roosevelt and the war department. It affected 140,000 enemy aliens and 70,000 American-born Japanese. California alone has 93,000 alien and American-born Japanese. Oregon and Washington have 27,000.

Dewitt emphasized the proclamation merely sets up prohibited and restricted areas on the coast and does not represent an order for aliens and Japanese-Americans to move out. Evacuation will be ordered later, he said.

He said immediate compulsory mass evacuation of all enemy aliens and American-born Japanese was not practicable, and that there would be no mass evacuation.

Dewitt said the entire process would be progressive and gradual, aimed at clearing the vital district but avoiding economic hardship to the extent consistent with the military urgency which impelled the action.

When that work is completed, Dewitt said, German and Italian aliens would be next in line for evacuation. However, German and Italian aliens 70 years of age or over will not be required to move "except when individually suspected."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I HOPE the glamour girls of Broadway and the Hollywood hills do not take the pigtail fashion too seriously. It is not very becoming—pigtails would not improve Katharine Hepburn, Paulette Goddard, Ethel Merman, or Hedy Lamarr and what's more, it looks pretty silly. I have an unshakable conviction that no female over the age of eight should wear pigtails... I don't hold with the theory that in wartime people want to see only light and cheerful plays and motion pictures. There is a definite place for melodrama and even tragedy on the stage and on the screen; fictional despair can be just as "escapist" as fictional joy, if it's entertaining, "Macbeth" and "Kings Row" and "How Green Was My Valley"—all hits—are current examples.

The passing from Times Square of that wonderful electric sign with the gay colored fishes saddens me, I must admit.

Not so much because it will make Broadway less cheery-looking, not just that Manhattan is losing another landmark — but chiefly because the fish sign was so pretty and so daffy. It advertised gum, and indeed several gum packs as big as limousines were illuminated on the sign, but chiefly it was just odd, fat red and green and pink fish blowing gaudy bubbles into the Broadway night. It had a screwball charm. There they were, from dusk until the last chorus girl had gone home; fish as big as elephants, bubbles as enormous as roc's eggs, fantastic surrealist waves—all twinkling and winking and shining for the glory of a nickel package of gum. It was Disney-ish, it was delightful. I hope some day it will be back.

I am beginning to believe that life among swing musicians resembles the life cycle of the amoeba. You know the way the amoeba divides in half, and then the halves grow and divide, and those divisions divide again, ad infinitum?

Well this biological operation haunts me when I read these swingland bulletins to the effect that Joe Trombone is leaving Bill Baton's band to form an orchestra of his own. It happened to Paul Whiteman and Duke Ellington and Tommy Dorsey, and it happened 12 times to Benny Goodman. Now it's happening again. Ray McKinley, Will Bradley's fantastic drummer, is cutting loose and starting his own troupe, from which unquestionably some saxophonist will divide to form his own unit. See what I mean?

The ending of the film "Mr. V." is a real thrill: That's more than an A picture. It's a V picture . . . The frugality with which most Americans have been handling the sugar situation is certainly commendable.

I suppose there are a few scattered, frightened and selfish hoarders throughout the nation, but for the most part the people I see are applying the rationing system conscientiously and with great good humor.

All but the most anemic females are rejoicing in the reduction of temptation, and there is certainly no grousing heard from the males.

Why, only the other evening Adolf Spreckles, the sugar king, carried his own lumps to the Cotillion Room and with a sly smile declined the Pierre's ration.

OHIOANS TOLD TO FIX RENTS

Property Owners In Five Areas Ordered To Restore Charge To April, July Levels.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Property owners in five Ohio "defense rental areas" today were given 60 days to restore rents to the level of last April and July.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said "the government will move in and do the job" if increases are not rescinded.

Last July 1 was designated the "maximum rent date" for Cuyahoga county and portions of neighboring Lake county embracing the township of Willoughby and those parts of the township of Kirtland in the corporate limits of Waite Hill and Willoughby.

The maximum rent date for the other areas is last April 1. They are:

Akron—All of Summit county and Wadsworth township in Medina county; Canton—All of Stark county; Ravenna—All of Portage county, and Youngstown-Warren—All of Mahoning and Trumbull counties.

The areas designated were among 20 communities in 13 states where some 8,000,000 persons reside.

Henderson said more than 100 additional areas were in line for similar designations as a result of "rent-gouging" and "profiteering."

The price administrator can provide fines and prison penalties for landlords failing to bring rents in line within 60 days after state and local authorities have been notified.

SOUND DEMOCRACY NEEDED, WIN OR LOSE WAR, BROMFIELD SAYS

Whether or not we win the war or lose it means nothing unless we are on a sound democratic basis, Author Louis Bromfield told the League of Women Voters last night when speaking on the subject, "The Bases For a Permanent Peace," at a public meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

"Our present war," said the speaker, "is a kind of world revolution, economic, political and social, which began to show itself for the first time in 1914 in the Balkan war, but which had its beginnings in the industrial revolution which began at the end of the 18th century when the machine age was born."

Terming the first World war provincial by comparison Bromfield said "there is not an individual Eskimo or Hottentot who is not affected by the present war."

"I do not think defeat very likely," the speaker said, "but a compromise peace in which the whole world decides to call it off would be a disastrous thing."

He spoke of the shifting of power to the East and called attention to the fact that when peace comes China will be one of the four or five great nations of the world and that India will be of immense importance.

Bromfield said he saw two definite zones of influence emerging from the crisis, one of the North American, South American and Australian, and the other, Russian, Chinese and Indian.

"There is no limit to our own power, our wealth and our responsibilities," he said. "It will be possible for us to dictate the peace that is to come. This time we will have no chance to object to taking our place in the League we will have to accept it."

Mrs. D. O. Meese introduced the speaker. She also announced that Mrs. J. T. Hoffman of the national league board will speak in Mansfield April 6.

Mrs. Thomas J. McDermott, league president, presided, and reviewed the local league board conference earlier in the day with two state officers, Miss Ruth Cole, executive secretary, and Mrs. F. C. Blake, chairman of government and its operations. Miss Lois McKellar gave a report of this meeting.

Paul M. Eliot, Richland county chairman of the sale of defense bonds, spoke to the league on the importance of buying bonds.

Other program features included a report of the February board of education session made by Miss Dorothy Dann, the appointment of Mrs. Kathryn McMichael by Mrs. McDermott to attend the next session, and the appointment of Mrs. E. M. Olin to head a study group concerned with welfare conditions in Mansfield.

Youth Faces the Future

—By MARJORIE McCLURE

(Editor's Note—The following editorial is by Marjorie McClure, a junior in Mansfield Senior high school, editor-in-chief for high school students on the Hyphonerian staff, who are filling editorial positions for today's editions of The News-Journal. Miss McClure is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McClure, 267 Vennum avenue.)

THERE was a time when history was considered just as a required subject in the high school curriculum. Students read of times when dangerous situations had to be met and important issues settled, and they read of men and women who rose to meet the needs of the time. But the students, reading that history, looked forward to little that was exciting and important. They led the same life day in and day out.

Our nation and its privileges have been considered as bought and paid for in full by our forefathers. We were here to enjoy the fruits of their labor. Rubber tires were things to be worn out and new ones bought; sugar was taken for granted. Recently we were jarred out of our complacency. Now we find it necessary to defend these privileges.

Today the state of affairs is all that any heroic youth could ask for. The world is in turmoil and the young people must realize that the younger generation will have to build the world of the future. Here is a chance for new pioneering, not by clearing forests and fighting Indians but by establishing order in a social and international wilderness.

What sacrifices are young people willing to make in order that the war will be won? Some will serve in the armed forces, but do those who will remain at home have any realization of what they will be called upon to do?

They will have to put aside their preconceived plans for a while and secure training in essential war industries. They will assume leadership in such vital co-operative ventures as the sale of defense stamps, the collection of scrap materials, the activities of civilian defense and other local movements.

Winning the war is the first responsibility of all the people. After the war, however, what attitude will American youth take? American young people have had no such training as the German youth who are a goose-stepping group sworn to blind obedience to a so-called leader. The young Americans know the facts and are able to draw valid conclusions. They have been brought up with a great faith in the democracy established by their forefathers.

Thre is no enemy in this world powerful enough to destroy this faith nor this democracy.

Change In Service-Safety Office

THE REGRETTABLE situation that developed in the city administration in recent weeks, which resulted in removal of C. M. Crafton from the position of service-safety director within two months after his reappointment for a second term in that office, has been brought to conclusion in a way that many people will regard as creditable to Mr. Crafton, who has striven, under considerable difficulty, to satisfactorily perform the duties of the office to which he was appointed two years ago.

While unacquainted with the specific tasks of service-safety directorship when he took office, Mr. Crafton had experience in business operation, contact with the public, and knowledge of civic affairs, which gave him quick understanding of various phases of both the service and safety departments of city business and the thoroughness of his work, as well as the friendly attitude shown toward all persons who came in contact with his office made a favorable impression on his associates in the city building as well as on the public.

The influence which Mr. Crafton and his friends carried into last fall's campaign was evidenced by the frequency of requests for assurance that he would be reappointed to the service-safety post. It seems not unlikely that friends of Mr. Crafton, and others who are appreciative of his qualifications, will be rather insistent that he continue active in civic affairs.

Re-entering the office of service-safety director, after four years' previous experience in that capacity—from 1926 through 1929, under Mayors Ports and Porter—Fred B. Wolff will be remembered as having been a capable, conscientious and affable official and there is every reason to believe that his resumption of duties with which he is familiar will result in continuance of efficient handling of these branches of city business. He is assured of the well wishes of many friends.

Death Takes Paul E. Sturges

THE CLOSE ATTENTION which Paul E. Sturges gave to operation of the wholesale business which he established in Mansfield when he was a young man, deprived many people of opportunity for an acquaintanceship that would have been much enjoyed, as Paul was a likable person and possessed attributes which made for firm friendship among those who knew him well.

The Sturges name has long been associated with the development of Mansfield and Paul's varied business and civic activities were such as to leave the impress of his generation on community affairs.

With the feeling of regret over his unexpected death, it is comforting to realize that, through his sons, the family name is to continue in association with Mansfield's business, civic and social life.

Paradeless St. Patrick's Day

SOME cities long accustomed to a St. Patrick's day parade and "wearing of the green" have decided against any marching this year.

Many of the young men have gone to join the fighting forces. Other men and maidens are working in factories. People otherwise not engaged have decided they can honor the good Saint Patrick by going to church and praying for America and freedom.

It was so easy to make a luxury seem like a necessity that it has become difficult for some people to recognize the difference.

Japan's Error In the Philippines

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

BY ANTAGONIZING the Spanish in the Philippines, it begins to appear, according to reports from the southwest Pacific, that the Japanese have made a mistake which promises presently to offset all advantages gained by them earlier from their landings on the islands. Incidentally, the Jap policy there may cost Herr Hitler the friendship of the Falangists in Spain itself—a non-belligerent friendship, to be sure, but one that the Nazis undoubtedly were counting on in connection with a possible thrust through northwestern African down to the highly strategic port of Dakar, so frequently mentioned as a convenient taking off place for 'em in the direction of the western hemisphere.

The archipelago having been a Spanish possession originally, folk of Spanish birth or descent naturally always have been pretty numerous there and, to this day, they remain quite a closely integrated element, not much mixed with the native islanders.

Now, this class never did want to be separated from Spain, and ever since the Battle of Manila Bay they've hoped for a reunion with their mother country.

Consequently they've been strongly anti-American and presumably would be pro-Jap at present if the Mikado had shown any inclination to restore 'em to the land of their ancestry. It can't but be evident to 'em, however, that he has no such notion, but intends, if he can, to annex them to Nippon, toward whose people they take the average white man's rather scornful attitude—at what he considers a somewhat inferior race.

No Distinctions.

Worse yet, from their standpoint, the Japs, wherever they're in occupation of Filipino soil and notably in Manila, have adopted an extremely oppressive policy toward the white faction of the population generally, threatening and curfewing and bossing 'em around, and they make no distinction in favor of any Caucasian merely because he happens to be a Spanish descendant.

Those Spaniards probably would have done some first-rate fifth columnizing if they'd been handled with gloves, but it was a bet that the Japs overlooked.

The stay-at-home Spaniards wanted their Philippines back again, too, but their yen for 'em more or less wore off by degrees; it didn't hang on in as acute a form as was the case with the exiled bunch who, being right under the Yankee thumb, were reminded of it constantly.

When World War No. 2 started, though, Madrid itself seems to have developed a fresh inclination to regain possession of its formerly subject islands. Caudillo Franco had the idea in mind, anyway, and I surmise that Adolf, with no immediate ambitions in that part of the world, would have been acquiescent enough, assuming that the Caudillo, in return, furnished him with the necessary accommodations for an expedition across vanquished France, then Spain, and over Gibraltar strait, Dakarward.

Typhus a Factor.

There are hints that a Nazi trip through Spain wouldn't do today, regardless of an authorization by Caudillo Franco, because typhus is rampant throughout the Iberian peninsula and the Germans would be sure to catch it. It is violently fatal and most of 'em would be dead of it before the surviving few could get to Dakar.

The words are sung to the air of "Anacreon in Heaven."

Man About Manhattan

How Rialto Spins

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is the way the rialto spins, my friends. . . . Two big empty trucks drive up to a theater in West 44th street. The signs on the trucks say "Theatrical Movers." Next day, all the pictures of Tallulah Bankhead in front of the theater are gone. So are the settings on the stage inside. So is Tallulah . . . "Clash By Night" is another slab in the potters field of Broadway's failures.

A blond young woman is found in a midtown hotel with her head bashed in. All she has on is a pair of black stepins. Clutched tightly in her hand is a shiny new quarter . . . Stuff for an O. Henry.

A song writer who has been married seven times continues to be the wonder of Times Square. . . . His name is Joe Howard. At night he sings all the songs that made him famous . . . And the most famous . . . And the most famous of these is the one that wonders, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?"

Rudy Vallee tells John Barrymore he expects to receive a commission in the navy soon, and Barrymore bawls, "One more reason for a two-ocean navy."

LAWRENCE TIBBETT thinks he'll be able to weather the sugar shortage all right. The singer owns a 120-acre farm named Honey Hill. On it are a dozen hives of bees. "A little honey," says Tibbett, "can make you forget all about your sugar any day."

A pup dachshund in a Rockefeller Center beauty salon moves around with a magnet attached to its neck—picking up hairpins.

A noted woman columnist, Dorothy Thompson, attends a Broadway showing of "Cafe Crown," a play about an eccentric eating house down town. After the curtain falls her escort asks, "Is there really such a place in town?" . . . "Certainly," Miss Thompson replies, "I'll show it to you." . . . The real name of this place is Cafe Royal . . . After the theater Miss Thompson and her escort turn up there . . . As so often happens, the cafe in real life is much more exciting than on the stage . . . For instance, while they are there a woman comes in and begins shouting "Heil Hitler . . . Heil Hitler." . . . After awhile there is a fracas, and the woman is finally evicted—but not until Miss Thompson has been kicked in the stomach and severely bitten in the hand.

MANWHILE, up town, the chef of a famous nightclub gets into an argument with his girl . . . The first thing anybody knows this chef is down on the floor gurgling out his life's blood. He has been slashed across the chest with a big pocket knife . . . The girl pounds against the door and screams, "My friend is ill!" . . . But when Dr. Tucker (no kin) of Roosevelt hospital gets there her friend is beyond all earthly cares. Then the police start throwing questions at her, "My mind," the girl tells them "went blank . . . and I don't know what happened."

This, my friends, is how the rialto spins . . .

Timely Editorial

By Way of Suggestion.

While the Allies drop back slowly on almost all fronts for the want of weapons—while steel men warn of imminent shortages in ore and scrap—Ohio is continuing to make millions of new auto tags.

There are many alternatives for such a move. It has been suggested, for instance, that Ohio attach strips of metal to their old plates showing that they have paid their fees.

This method has been used by Connecticut for years now with not only a saving of metal—but a saving to the state in price of the metal.

However, Harold Guthbert, Ohio's assistant registrar of motor vehicles, doesn't like the idea. He claims that it would cost the state as much to change the machines in order to produce strips—as it would to produce new plates. He forgets that what America is striving to do is save metal not money. —Lorain Journal.

Vichy Island In West Indies Is Suspected as Base for U-Boats

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When you get them out of official earshot, exiled members of the old French cabinet now in Washington, are very suspicious of what the Vichy government is doing in Martinique and Guadeloupe.

Guadeloupe is a less publicized French island near Martinique, and certain coded messages have been intercepted indicating pro-German activities on both islands. Suspicion is strong that Guadeloupe is being used as a submarine refuelling base for Nazi submarines operating in the Caribbean.

But when the state department officially denied this recently, French ex-cabinet exiles remarked:

"Your state department is still playing the gentlemen's game of diplomacy. You bow graciously and believe what is told you. But gentlemen do not know how to deal with gangsters."

French friends warn that the French navy is fascist-minded, that Admiral Robert, commanding Vichy Martinique is pro-German; that there will be sabotage against French ships in Martinique harbor if they should be threatened with seizure by the Allies. These same sources suggest that there be quiet encouragement of pro-Ally groups in the French islands who could easily take them over.

McNary Feeds Hippo.

IN THE "elephant house" at the Washington zoo, onlookers noticed a distinguished gentleman trying to arouse the sleeping hippopotamus by poking him with a walking stick. It proved to be Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, entertaining his little adopted daughter.

"Come on, wake up, Rhino," said the distinguished senator.

It wasn't a rhinoceros, but the name was effective, for the hippo raised its head out of the water, opened its mammoth jaws and begged for food.

The little girl threw a peanut, but it hit the hippo's teeth and bounced off. So Senator McNary took a peanut from her bag, aimed carefully, and threw it right down the hippo's throat.

Capital Chaff.

REASON for Roosevelt's cough at the Washington Day dinner: He had spent about an hour giving his speech aloud for radio discs, and he was hoarse. The discs are to be shipped out all over the country. . . . High navy officers boiled at Secretary Stimson's statement that fifteen enemy-rented planes were over Los Angeles last week. Navy insisted not a single plane was overhead. . . . Herbert Hoover, lunching with ex-Republican Chairman John Hamilton on the noon Pearl Harbor was invaded, paid tribute to Roosevelt's handling of foreign relations, said he was convinced the president was trying to keep us out of war. Since Mr. Hoover does not turn on the radio much, he did not know about Pearl Harbor until several hours later when he returned to his New York hotel. . . . Professor Andrew Simpson of Swarthmore college has been assigned by the navy to make a special study of magnetic mines. To make his studies, he has dug in on an Atlantic island. . . . Tammany, which was boycotted by Roosevelt in the New York campaign for LaGuardia, in turn boycotted the recent Washington Day Democratic dinner. A lot of seats had to be filled with soldiers and sailors.

New GOP Chairman?

IT'S VERY shush-shush, but in certain inner Republican circles there have been secret pow-wows on replacing Representative Joe Martin as national chairman.

The hardworking little Bay Stater wanted to quit last year, but party chiefs decided that the wisest course would be to persuade Martin to say for the sake of harmony.

Now some of the strongest advocates of his retention are after his scalp. The hostile fire is from two sources.

One is from mid-west leaders, sour on Martin, (1) for his failure to give them recognition in national headquarters; (2) for his secret financial wooing of Pennsylvania oil millionaire Joseph Pew and Pennsylvania steel millionaire Ernest Weir.

In the farm belt the two big-money contributors are political dynamite and the mid-west GOP chiefs can't understand why Martin is palling around with them. So they feel the time has come for one of their group to be named either national chairman or executive director and they have decided it's time that Martin was checked out.

The other group gunning for Martin are anti-isolationists, long opposed to his strong isolationist leanings.

After Pearl Harbor and Martin's earnest talk of national unity, this faction was willing to forgive his previous isolationist voting record in congress. But they called all bets off when out of a clear sky he suddenly appointed Clarence Buddington Kelland publicity director of the national committee. Kelland is a fervid isolationist and a man who, politically speaking, does not know when to come in out of the rain.

Note: If Martin does decide to hold a meeting of the national committee next month, he plans to stage it in Chicago as a sop to mid-west leaders.

Airplane Pioneers.

REASON the Lend-Lease administration is made up largely of treasury department personnel is that Henry Morgenthau was first in the cabinet to pioneer the sale of planes to the Allies. Many of his men, including able counsel Oscar Cox and Phil Young, son of General Electric's Owen D. Young, still are running the show.

Morgenthau and Roosevelt, even as early as 1939 at a time when the senate military affairs committee was berating them, had conceived the idea that production of American airplanes for France and Britain would expand our plane factories for use in case we got into the war.

At that time, no one dreamed France would fold, and Morgenthau got tons of senatorial criticism heaped upon him when a French test pilot cracked up a plane in Los Angeles, revealing that the French had placed orders here. However, he plugged ahead.

Later we took over most of these French planes—though some have been rusting away on Martinique.

Note: Roosevelt was denounced by Senator Nye and other isolationists four years ago when he was quoted as saying "America's frontier is on the Rhine." Only mistake was he should have said it was in Africa, Australia and North Ireland.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The pattern of wartime living is beginning to shape up.

The future still is too uncertain to make predictions safe but some lines in the picture of things to come for John A. Public are being rapidly sketched in. To consider a few of the most important:

NO. 1 on anybody's list must be transportation for it is likely to be the most drastic of all the changes ahead and probably will be felt first. Some here predict the auto and rubber shortages will set a lot of us back on our heels by autumn. That's going to affect home life, social life, recreation, and vacations (train travel might be restricted, too.)

Getting acquainted with one's close neighbors is likely to become more popular than hiking or pedalling across town or to the next village to spend an evening with Bill and Mary. And recreation will be found closer to home than the country club that is ten miles out. As for vacations, transportation will affect them most, but restrictions on coastal areas and a rapidly expanding army on wheels ranging over vast sections in maneuvers, will also have their affect.

(2). Food. There's going to be plenty of it, even if the war drags on, but menus are going to change. Try putting together a meal with out using any thing that comes in a can (except soups, the supply of which may not be reduced), no spices or condiments that come from the Orient, less sugar (and therefore more sugar substitutes).

NO. 3, Clothing. This too, will be plentiful, but it won't be the same. Silk is out and nylon, too, as soon as present processed stocks are depleted. Cotton and rayon are plentiful. The wool supply is being carefully shepherded.

Women's dresses will have fewer frills, gadgets and costume jewelry—or none at all. Male attire may undergo drastic changes. Eliminate two trouser suits, vests, cuffs, pocket flaps and possibly even lapels. There will be fewer colors in women's wear and the gent given to flamboyant colors and race-track checks will have to do his sartorial strutting in black and the darker shades of blue and brown.

(4) Money. The prospects here are too complicated for any one outside the field of economy to forecast with any certainty. If Leon Henderson's price fixing works, if wages and farm prices can be kept from skyrocketing and a couple of dozen more "ifs," there will be more money with less to spend it on.

The "more money" probably will be in the hands of formerly unemployed; those (especially skilled machinists and factory workers) who haven't for years been able to work every day; industrious farmers; and in the hands of those who supply the goods and the pleasures that money CAN buy. But it'll get around. And heaps and heaps of it will go right back to Uncle Sam.

A Farmer's Diary

Farmers' Institute

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON SATURDAY afternoon I attended farmers' institute—one of those myriad farm conventions held throughout the land this time of year. The meeting convened in the Grange hall of a country village, with perhaps 100 people present . . . men, women, and children.

Local school children had advertised the meeting with posters—these displayed on the walls. For the evening program, tickets were already sold out for a home talent play. Agricultural leaders of the state and county were there—for this occasion the small community was a nucleus of agricultural interest.

"What is the best thing about this meeting?" a farmer asked me when it was over.

I looked about at the groups of farmers and farmers' wives exchanging friendly conversation, and quickly answered, "Neighbors getting acquainted."

"I think you're right," he said. "We inspire each other."

Such slogans as Food for Freedom, Plant a Victory Garden, Bundles for Buddies, are excellent, no doubt. But on the farms they will not mean much without the co-operation and work and prayers of farmer folk. Keeping up home morale, serving balanced foods produced on the home farm, willingness to do without frills and luxuries—all are fostered by neighbors getting acquainted. Neighbors make communities, communities make nations. Our lives are to live and to lend—to give and to spend . . . "if we cannot do, we can at least do without."

Burns had it thus:

"Oh Scotia! My dear, my native soil!
For whom my warmest wish to heaven is sent!
Long may thy hardy sons of rustic toil
Be blest with health and peace and sweet content.
And oh! may heaven their simple lives prevent
From luxury's contagion, weak and vile!
Then, how'er crowns and coronets be rent,
A virtuous populace may rise the while,
And stand a wall of fire around their much loved isle."

Authorizes Collection of Taxes For Street and Sewer Improvements.

SHELBY—Five ordinances assessing property owners for street and sanitary sewer improvements were approved by city council at its semi-monthly meeting Monday night at the city hall.

An assessment of $1.35 per front foot was set on lots along the Auburn street extension for a tar-bound street surface laid there, $150 a lot on Mack avenue, between Simeon and the south side of inlot 1822, for a sanitary sewer, $2.70 per front foot on Morning Side drive for street improvements, $95 per lot along the same street for sanitary sewer improvements and $1 per front foot for the widening of West Main street, between Wentz avenue and the New York Central railroad.

Council instructed Street Commissioner Guy McClane to make a survey of the downtown sidewalks to determine which ones need repair.

Boyd Wierman of Mansfield, city engineer, will survey Leichty avenue in the near future to determine whether there is room for a sidewalk into the park from the Boulevard along that street.

Mayor W. R. Morris called a meeting of the gas rate ordinance committee for 7 p. m. Friday at the city building. The committee will go over rates received from cities about the size of Shelby in preparation to drawing up a rate ordinance for this city.

HOSPITAL AT GALION OPENS NEW DIVISION

Catherine Cobb, Minneapolis, Takes Over Duties as Technician.

GALION—City hospital which started business a year ago in a new $100,000 building, has had such a volume of business during the past year that the institution has hardly seemed adequate in size at times.

While the building was constructed with a laboratory, funds did not permit equipping the room. However, a donation of $500 from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cobey, and another gift of $1,000 from the board of the old Good Samaritan hospital, has made the opening of the laboratory a possibility. With the exception of cupboards and sink which will be installed in the near future, the laboratory is now ready for operation.

Monday, Miss Catherine Cobb, of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived at the hospital to take over the duties of technician. She was graduated from the Northwest Institute of Medical Technology at Minneapolis.

The regular staff of nurses, including Naomi Weber, superintendent, numbers 12. A vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. James Walters last Saturday has been filled by Therese Shier of Mt. Gilead.

Besides the 12 regular nurses, there are four nurses' aides employed, and another aide who helps with the serving of food.

The hospital has boasted during its year of business, some 242 births. Of this number, there were four pairs of twins. Patients at the hospital during the year, totaled 1,260, besides 118 "outpatients," those who are treated and released immediately.

Your Life Insurance in Wartime

IN TIME OF WAR, the security underlying your life insurance takes on a new meaning. More than ever before, security for the family is paramount.

While supporting that security, your life insurance dollars, invested in Government Bonds, are helping to buy planes, tanks, ships, guns, and all the other implements of war. Thus your life insurance dollars are helping to safeguard American lives and liberties.

At the end of 1941, Metropolitan had a total of $1,214,931,424.25 invested in United States Government Bonds . . . about 22% of the Company's assets. In addition, $104,982,562.49 was invested in Canadian Government Bonds.

In both the United States and Canada, life insurance dollars are helping to finance your defense housing, transportation facilities, the production of power, and the industries which are pouring out the steel, chemicals, oil, food, munitions, and other materials needed for the war. Each month more and more of your life insurance dollars are flowing from the channels of peace into investments that serve war uses and war industries.

Because of public appreciation of life insurance, increased efficiency of our agents, and the better national income during 1941, lapses and surrenders were at the lowest rate recorded in the Company's history.

In fulfilling its obligations to policyholders during 1941, Metropolitan paid or credited to policyholders and their beneficiaries more than $567,900,000. Of this amount, more than $383,700,000 was paid or credited to living policyholders.

Metropolitan is a mutual company. Its assets are held for the benefit of its policyholders and their beneficiaries. In the meantime, these assets are, as always in the past, being used to help meet national needs.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FEAR THAT LONG SUIT

Spying a long suit in the dummy, a defender should fear it as a possible means whereby the declarer may disc - losers of other suits. It should impel his opponents to make sure, if they can, of taking in the setting trick or tricks by the surest possible method without worrying about setting him an extra trick, lest he use that long suit to keep himself from being set at all.

The best that can be said about that bidding is that there was plenty of it, such as it was. But part of the play was right in tune with it. When West led the heart K, that was okeh. If without thinking he had then laid down the diamond A, he would still have been all right. But he did not act without thinking.

"East supported my diamonds instead of hearts," recalled West. "Hence his 2 on the first trick is very likely a singleton. Furthermore, South might not have doubled the diamonds unless he had a few cards in my other suit, hearts if I look out to it. If South has three hearts and East only one, repeating hearts will give us three tricks there, counting his ruff of the third one. Furthermore, I don't like to lay down the diamond A and set up the K. If I wait, I cant play the A if South uses the K, or the Q, when he plays the J. This way we may set him several tricks."

So West led the heart K to the second trick. Declarer ruffed it, overtook the club Q with dummy's A, led the club J and, when East played low, discarded a diamond. East put his K on the club 10, which was ruffed. The Spade A and K were taken, the club 3 covered by the 9 and ruffed, setting up the 8, then the spade J settled the last trump, and the heart Q-10 and club 8 furnished discards of the last diamonds, the spade Q then taking the final trick and making the contract.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

My premonition was justified, I told myself, as I heard my father's voice outlining the mission he wished me to undertake.

When I had first seen that page of cryptic characters, which had blown from Stephen Redfield's pile of papers and been cleverly retrieved by Mary without her leading man's knowledge, I had recognized it as being in the hand of Jack Bickett, the "brother-cousin" companion of my childhood, now the husband of Katherine, who was faithfully caring for my children in my absence.

I knew, no one better, how great were her anguish and suspense at the long, inexplicable silence of her husband. Her anguish and the anxiety of all the rest of us had been whipped to fever heat by the questions concerning the whereabouts of Jack Bickett which had come first by telephone from Marion soon after she was seized by the gangsters, and later from Stephen Redfield, who had admitted that he knew Jack Bickett was now in the country, instead of being still in the wilds of South America where he was when we last heard of him.

Katherine Not Told.

I had not informed Katherine of my discovery of the page with its cryptic characters. For one thing, I doubted that it would mean anything to her. It definitely belonged to Jack's student days when he was living in the same house with my little mother and me, long before Katherine or Dicky had come into our lives.

For another, I knew that it would only arouse her terror for Jack, without giving her any news concerning him.

So no one knew of the queer characters on the page except my father and myself, and I had not revealed the whole history of Jack's studies even to my father—or, of course, Stephen Redfield.

Mary did not count, I told myself. All she knew was that I had looked as if "seeing a ghost" when I had seen the piece of paper, and that I had taken it from her to secrete even from my father, although I had changed my mind later and showed it to him, with a brief explanation of how I knew Jack had written it.

To Seek Professor Diswell.

Whether Stephen Redfield had any idea of the real meaning of the sheet, I had no idea, but I did not believe he had. Only one person in the world besides Jack would be able to decipher the characters, and I knew now that my father expected me to get in touch with him before nightfall.

"This Professor Walter Scott Diswell," my father said, "where did you say he lived?"

"I have made inquiries," I said with a rueful smile, "and from all I can learn he is hibernating in the outskirts of a village in the Litchfield Hills. His address is Thunder Mountain, R. D. That sounds difficult enough, but I am sure I shall be able to find it easily."

"You are probably an optimist when you say 'easily'," he said, "but that you will find it—and the man—eventually this afternoon I am sure. If you are too late in finding him, don't try to return here tonight. Find some well-known hotel and stay for the night, starting on your return journey as early tomorrow as you can."

"I must get back in time to prepare for that impersonation of Lillian tomorrow night," I told him, and he nodded acquiescence.

"But if you get back any time tomorrow afternoon you will be early enough," he said, with a faith in my adaptability which I hoped was justified.

Must Follow Orders.

But I knew there was no hope of escaping or even modifying his plans. I must keep to the course he had outlined for me, and I waited quietly for his further orders.

"I have given orders for the armored car to be at the hotel entrance within ten minutes," he said. "I see that you are in readiness to start. I have no orders to give you. You know what we want to get out of Professor Diswell better than I. We wish any possible knowledge of Jack's present whereabouts. In five minutes we will leave here and proceed to the entrance, where the armored car awaits you."

With the sudden remembrance of something I almost had let slip from my mind, I put a hurried question.

"Can you flag that car, so that it won't come to the entrance?" I asked.

CHAPTER XVII

Judith dressed for Phyllis' party, thinking that her plans for joining Max had been fully made. The next week-end she would go home and the week-end following that she would sail. When she went home, she would tell them she was in love with a man named Max Worthington, that his work had taken him out of the country and that they must be neither shocked nor unhappy if she wrote that she was married. Though they might not approve, she felt certain that she could count upon their understanding.

Tonight she wore a frock that Max liked, a black one, its severity relieved only by a jeweled pin at the neckline. She was going to Phyllis' apartment alone because Sid Biddison regretfully had declined her invitation; he was going home that week-end. She had neither seen nor heard from the other young men she knew since that day last October when Max came into her life.

Phyllis' party was unimportant, she thought as she closed the apartment door. Her guests probably would try to recapture the convivial spirit of ship life and fail miserably in the attempt.

It was a bitterly cold February night. Arriving at Phyllis' apartment she thought that the writing of her last letter to Max before she joined him had so delayed her that she was probably the last guest to arrive. For outside the door she heard the mingling of voices within.

When Phyllis, colorful in her favorite green opened the door, strange faces appeared as Judith entered. There were perhaps a dozen people in the long living-room, all talking, while Phyllis' uniformed maid-of-the-evening moved about with drinks and food. The ages of Phyllis' guests ranged from the very youthful to the middle-aged. It was impossible to tell the married from the unmarried.

"Oh, darling, I'm so glad you could come," Phyllis said when they were in Phyllis' bedroom. "Someone else here is going to South America. She's sailing tomorrow. Fay Hathaway. You'll have to get together. She's a lovely person. Her deck chair was next to mine on the cruise."

In the living-room Judith spoke to Ames before meeting the guests. Their names she would not remember, but their faces were to become so associated with tonight and all the events which led up to it that she would remember them always as part of the climax.

Oddly enough, the only other woman in the room wearing black was Fay Hathaway.

Introducing them, Phyllis said, "Judith is sailing to South America in two weeks," and moved away, leaving them together when Ames' nod meant that he wished to see her.

Fay Hathaway was a tall young woman with a warm, throaty voice, a gracious, serene manner and a charming smile. Dark-haired, brown-eyed, she was dressed simply but expensively, and Judith borrowed an expression that Max had used in describing her to describe Fay . . . "She has probably never made a scene in her life." She was a person whom you felt instinctively and suddenly wanted for a friend, knowing that once she was your friend, you could not bear to lose her. Her dark eyes were as gentle and as knowing as her smile.

"But South America is a fairly good-sized place, isn't it?" she asked.

Judith said with a smile, "It looks enormous on the map. That's all I've seen of it."

"It is enormous and it seems incredible that life can be so utterly different just a few days out of New York. You'll have a lovely time."

* * *

Somehow Fay Hathaway seemed not to belong in the group of Phyllis' other cruise acquaintances who were eagerly reaching for the next drink, scarcely before they had finished one. For Fay seemed to have sprung from an atmosphere where people did not raise their voices or laugh uproariously or drink too much. But then people who sit side by side in deck chairs for two weeks did become quite well acquainted and no doubt Fay had liked the vague, attractive Phyllis and had liked even more the courteous, fine-looking Ames. But Fay was obviously not married and she had also come alone.

Ames joined them. "I thought you two would like each other."

"Are you a fashion artist, too, Miss Hathaway?" Judith asked.

"She's a musician," Ames said.

"But only in my spare time, Ames. I'm not teaching this winter." She smiled at Judith. "I found that teaching piano interfered with living and living is so much more important. But you draw fashions . . . I look at them and admire the clever lines, but I've always felt that so much talent went into telling women what and where to buy clothes that should go into more serious art."

Judith said, laughing like, "But you said living was important. I draw fashions to live . . . I'd like so much to hear you play. I don't hear nearly enough music."

"Then you shall. When you return and I return, you must come to see me and I'll make music for you. But on second thought there is a slight possibility I won't be coming back for quite a while."

Judith thought, "I, too. Because I'm going to marry Max."

A rather attractive young man joined them. "I forbid you to corner the market on beauty, Ames, old boy. These two girls have nothing to drink. You're neglecting your duties as host, but I never neglect the women."

Several times during the evening Judith saw Fay glance at her diamond-studded watch, though that gesture was the only one indicative of her wish to leave. The wish was mutual since Phyllis' guests after hours of incessant drinking had become quite hilarious and thick as well as careless of speech and she felt that Fay's sober presence and hers had a dampening effect.

Ames, looking not only very tired, but disgusted, and the starched uniform of the stout colored maid had wilted. But Phyllis was in excellent spirits as she listened to the reading of her palm by the rather attractive young man.

It was Fay who decided the issue and came to Judith.

"Ames tells me that you and I are going in the same direction. Tomorrow will be a strenuous day for me and I really must be going. I thought we could share the same taxi."

It was with infinite relief that they stepped into the dark, cold night.

"You haven't always lived in New York," Fay said when they were in the taxi.

"Is it so obvious?"

"Pleasantly so. It's in your voice. I've lived here always except for rather long periods traveling. When teaching music interfered with my several annual trips, I gave up teaching music. It was never a serious career with me as your work is with you. It simply filled a gap after my family moved to California and I decided not to go out there to live."

"I should think it would be difficult to put a continent between one and one's family."

"I'm devoted to mine, too, but my father's health necessitated their moving out there. But, you see, there were other people who kept me in New York." Turning her dark head, she looked at Judith directly and kindly. "I'd like to be as young as you and beginning to live as you are. I'd have arranged my life quite differently."

"I've never believed it was ever too late to start over."

Fay smiled. "That's because you're so young. I'm 32, my dear. I'm afraid it is too late for me to expect people to do for me what they should have done years ago." As the taxi stopped before the tall brick apartment house, she reached in her flat black purse . . . "I thought I had brought letters to mail. I particularly wanted to get them out of the way because I'll have no time tomorrow."

"If you'll get them, I'll mail them for you."

"Then won't you come up? Suppose we let the taxi go. It isn't very late and you won't be disturbing anyone. I live quite alone."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Comes a letter from AP's Fritz Howell asking for nominations for an All-Ohio high school basketball team, and pointing out that while no sports writer or coach in the state can be expected to have seen all the high school teams in this commonwealth, still a cross-section of nominations from over the state may result in a fairly accurate appraisal of talent.

Well, maybe so. But it must be conceded that selection of an All-Ohio basketball team, on any basis, is much more difficult than picking an all-state football team, and that many an outstanding player will be lost in the shuffle when the ballots are counted.

Only interest I have in an All-Ohio, is in seeing that big Bob Winbigler, husky Mansfield forward, is among those honored in the final selections. I think he deserves it.

Windy is the best forward I've seen this winter, but then I haven't seen the Tygers on any of their road trips. Coach Vern Hoffman says Dee Snelling of Newark, who made all-state honors a year ago, is the only forward he's seen to compare with Winbigler.

Truer words I am not composin' "Many are called, but few are chosen."

So picking a first team from the players I've seen, I'm sending in the nominations of Winbigler and Dale Haverstock of Canton McKinley, forwards, Garver, Canton McKinley, center, and McDade and Buttermore, Massillon, guards.

Boys I've seen on second team nominations are Joe DeMando, Massillon, center, Stentz, Ashland, and Wernet, Canton McKinley, guards. I'm taking Hoffman's word on Snelling for forward, realizing that he'll probably make first team. And I'm naming Snooks Jenkins of Fremont for the other forward.

I saw both Snelling and Jenkins play last winter, and have followed their records closely enough this season to know that they're both deserving nominations.

* * *

Howell wanted to know something about the outstanding players nominated, including scholastic rating and probable college choice.

So I asked Principal Glenn Rohleder the first question about Winbigler.

"Scholastic rating?" Excellent," Rohleder reported. "He passed all junior subjects with a "B" average, and he's doing better than that this year, with a lot of "A's" on his card. Upper third, and much above the average."

The answer to a college coach's prayer—an outstanding athlete whose grades will never cause any worries about eligibility for competition. But whether the best prayer, in this case, has been offered up by Paul Brown at Ohio State, or the mentors at Duke or Tennessee I couldn't tell you at this writing.

No, I didn't pick an all-star Class "B" team. The only "B" teams I saw this season were in the Richland county tournament.

And (I hope the rest of the boys won't feel hurt) the only player I saw in that tourney who might be considered all-state caliber, was Jack Elliott of Ontario, a team that was defeated in the first round.

Elliott, a fine ball-handler, dribbler and faker, was the first player chosen for an all-tourney team by the referees. The team was picked just for fun and not for publication.

WITH 14 lettermen included in a squad of 57 track and field candidates reporting tonight for the first time for Mansfield high's 1942 campaign of the scanty-clads, Coach Harry Mehock looked forward today to a much more successful season than the Tyger trackmen had a year ago.

Included among the returning letter wearers are such tried performers as Elroy "Lightnin'" Jones, broad jumper and sprinter, Ed Woodberry, distance runner, James Atwater, high and low hurtles, Bob "Windy" Winbigler, shot put and discus.

Other veterans returning are Walter Becker, dashes, James Burrage, 440, Dick Butterfield, high and low hurtles and relays, Howard Herrick, 440 and relays, Louis Nameth, 440, Earl Packer, high jump and hurtles, Jim Robertson, pole vault, Bob Timmons, low hurtles, and Ivan Witchy, sprints.

Mehock recalls that his 1941 Tyger trackmen, composed mainly of green material, got away to a disastrous start, but developed rapidly and won their share of meets toward the close of the season.

With 14 veterans back from that team, the Tyger track tutor hopes to break the tape with a few early victories this spring.

* * *

Among new candidates from whom much is expected are:

Sprints—Bob Baker, Spencer Klein, Bill Kinkle, Allen Kinkle, Osler Seymour, and Tom Yantz.

Pole vault—Fred Bidgener, Wilbur Bookwalter, Chuck Condon, Jim Dougherty, Dick Meister and Russ McBride.

Distance runs—Delarcy Black, Bob Ewers, Charles Franzen, Dave Flockenzier, Dick Jacobs, Albert Mulberry, Charles Perkybile, Bob Pore, George Reichert, Jim Smith and Dave Todd.

High jump—Lee Crownover, Bill Eichler, Malcom Glick, Andy Lamoreux and Bill Lewis.

Hurdles—John Albers, Wilbur Bookwalter, Jasper Browny, Bill Eichler, Albert Etzel, Bill Lewis, Andy Lamoreux, Floyd White, Tom Yontz, Lee Crownover and Malcom Glick.

Shot put and discus—Ed Arlin, Steve Maurer, Paul Matthes, Frank Miller, Bob Moorehead and Bill Pecht.

All sprinters will try out for broad jump.

In line with plans drawn up at a recent meeting of Ohio high school and college track coaches, at Columbus, Mehock plans a number of twilight meets starting at 6:30, after the weather becomes warm enough. Early meets will probably be staged at 4 o'clock.

* * *

Mansfield high will enter only one relay event this year, that one at Newark May 2, when 10 other relays are scheduled over the state.

The Tyger track schedule:
April 4—Newark.
April 11—Columbus East.
April 18—Marion (tentative).
April 25—at Akron Garfield.
May 2—at Newark Relays.
May 9—Sandusky.
May 16—District at Fremont.
May 23—State at Columbus.

Mehock annonnced tentative plans for a city-wide track carnival this spring at Stadium field on a plan similar to that of the recent ice carnival. The meet will be divided into three divisions, grade school, junior high and a high school inter-class meet.

Chips Down As High School Cagers Begin Sectionals

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The chips were down today in Ohio's high school basketball championship race, with sectional tournaments on in 27 cities and towns.

Survivors will go on to district meets next week, with the 16 Class B finalists clashing at Springfield March 19, 20 and 21, and four Class A survivors battling it out at Kent the following Saturday.

Season records on all fronts went into the discard as the teams in both sections started anew, except for the close to 700 Class B quintets erased in last week's county championship events.

All kinds of talent fell by the wayside as the minor leaguers battle for a place in the sun. Leading casualties were Ridgeway in the Hardin county meet, and Webster in Wood county.

Each had a record of 18 straight victories, but Lake high beat Webster, 30 to 22, and Forest whipped Ridgeway, 31 to 23. Each victor fent on to take the county title. Still in there battling, with unsullied records, are Middle Point of Van Wert county and New Concord of Muskingum county—the latter an early long-shot choice to take the state crown surrendered by Glenford in the opening round of the Perry county event.

Here are some of the county champions who will bid for further honors in this week's sectionals:

Williams—West Unity; Fulton—Archbold; Franklin—Grove City; Lawrence — Waterloo Wonders; Knox—Fredericktown; Van Wert—Middlepoint; Hamilton — Colerain; Licking—Utica; Huron—Wakeman; Sandusky — Townsend Township; Mahoning — Poland; Vinton—Vinton Rural; Brown—Fayettesville; Pike—Western Rural; Greene—Yellow Springs Bryan; Logan—West Liberty; Madison — Fairfield; Clark — Enon; Muskingum—New Concord.

Noble—Harriettsville; Monroe—Lewisville; Guensey—Community; Shelby—Anna; Clinton — Sabina; Butler — Hanover; Warren — Springboro; Wyandot—Wharton; Erie — Brimingham; Harrison—Bowerstown; Jefferson—Bergholz; Ashtabula—East Conneaut Rowe; Tuscarawas—Gnadenhutten; Mercer—Coldwater; Hardin—Forest; Auglaize—New Knoxville; Putnam — Vaughnsville; Allen — Gomer; Ross — Buckskin; Columbiana — Waterford; Mahoning — Poland; Carroll—Sherrodsville; Holmes—Holmesville; Stark—East Sparta.

Richland — Union; Summit — Twinsburg; Medina—Lodi; Ashland — Hayesville; Wayne — Doylestown; Darke—Arcanum; Jackson—Coalton; Scioto—Lucasville; Highland — Fairfield; Seneca—Old Fort.

The Class A contingent got under way last night at Youngstown, and Youngstown Rayen, one of last year's state tourney finalists, went out in the first round as it bowed for the third time this year to Youngstown South, 26-24. Last week South won over Rayen by 27-25.

Heavy interest centers on the northwestern sectional meet opening tonight at Defiance, for Bowling Green and Defiance, two of the highly-rated Class A clubs, are entrants there and only one can survive. Bowling Green has won 14 of 16, and last week handed Defiance its only loss in 19 games by 32 to 27. They're due to meet in the quarter finals unless upset before that time.

Charles And Overlin Draw

Ezzard Finds Washington Fighter Stays Cunning.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Young Ezzard Charles reflected with regret today that Veteran Ken Overlin has lost but little of his ring cunning in the past 10 months.

The two fought to a 10-round draw before 4,500 fans who packed Music hall arena last night, and the battle resembled remarkably a clash of the two last June when the Washington scrapper rallied in the late rounds to take a decision.

Low punching cost Charles part of an advantage he piled up with jabs of his long left in the first four rounds. In the sixth, when Overlin slipped to the foor for no count and took a jolting right to the face soon after getting up, Referee Earl Butler waved Charles back to give Overlin a few seconds rest after a questionable punch.

Charles hesitated, and Overlin, using left hooks successfully, held the edge for the rest of the fight. Neither fighter was in serious trouble at any time.

Overlin weighed five and a half pounds more than Charles' 162.

"There is some question whether he will ever play again," said Manager Connie Mack.

Following at two hour intervals will be the Ohio state Elks booster squad, representing 30 Ohio cities, and 36 Columbus teams on the "dog watch" shift.

A $450 purse has been posted for the 36 "ice breakers" teams, prizes ranging from $100 for first to $25 for ninth. Prizes for the four classes in the entire tournament total $250,000.

Members of teams firing tonight will bowl their singles and doubles events tomorrow afternoon to complete nine-game all-events schedules, a regular night and day procedure for tournament contestants.

Meyers Says He's Quitting Baseball

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Billy Meyers of the Chicago Cubs insisted today he isn't a holdout—he just doesn't want to play baseball any. more, vowing "I've had enough."

Refusing to take a cut from the $12,000 he earned last year, the 31-year-old shortstop now is working as an extra fireman on the Pennsylvania railroad, bringing home $6.88 to $8.34 a day—when he works.

Meyers disclosed the Cubs wanted to slash his pay "a good bit," adding "I'd take less money, if I signed, than when I broke into the majors." So far as he's concerned "they can do anything they want with me—sell me, trade me or release me—but I'm quitting for good."

PUBLIC PARKING LOT QUESTION UP FOR BALLOT

Council To Hear Final Reading of Ordinance To Lease Plot on Walnut Street.

Leasing of a vacant lot at the south end of Walnut street for use as a public parking lot will be one of the matters discussed by Mansfield's city council in what promises to be an unusually long session today at 8 p. m. in the municipal building.

Council has already given two readings to an ordinance authorizing the lease of the property from Carl H. Stander, Mansfield contractor, at a rate of $25 per month.

The lot would be used by the public for free parking and would be rented with funds from parking meter receipts.

If given a favorable vote tonight, the ordinance would be passed and Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff would be authorized to enter in a contract for the rental of the lot.

The lot could accommodate between 75 and 100 cars.

Also to be considered at tonight's meeting are: the purchase of insurance for the city's waterworks machinery; the purchase of a new fire pumper; an ordinance setting a schedule for the operation of gasoline service stations; requests by city employes in the garbage and water departments for wage increases, and the renewal of a contract with General hospital for the medical care of indigent patients.

Council will be asked to authorize Wolff to enter into a contract with an insurance company for the purchase of insurance to cover the Maxwell Springs pumping station.

A pump at the station broke down early in January. When arrangements were being made for the payment of a $330 claim for the 33 hours the city was without the use of the pump, it was learned that the insurance had been purchased illegally by Mayor W. J. Locke, an insurance man, himself.

City Solicitor L. K. Wagner ruled that the mayor had purchased the insurance without following the law requiring that advertisements for bids be madee on any purchase over $500. The premium for the policy was $1,500 but City Auditor Paul L. Kelley refused to pay after learning of the illegal action.

Since then, according to the Holibaugh-Wolfe Insurance company, the company which wrote the policy, the price has gone up to $3,400. The insurance company is headed by Earl A. McFarland, former mayor.

Council will also be asked to authorize the service director to ask for bids on the purchase of a $10,000 pumper and 3,000 feet of hose for the Mansfield fire department.

Also to be considered is an ordinance calling for the closing of all service stations during the evening hours. The Mansfield Gasoline Retailers' association wants council to pass an ordinance allowing stations to operate only between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. daily and between 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Sundays.

Laborers in the water and garbage departments have petitioned council to raise their wages, claiming that a blanket increase given in December, is not enough to compensate for the rapidly increasing cost of living.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

RAIL DEMAND PACES SLIGHT UPWARD SWING

Sinking of Destroyer Off New Jersey Coast Gives Traders New Worry.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Light demand for rails brought selective recoveries in today's stock market.

A shade ahead in early transactions were shares of Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, U. S. Steel, DuPont, Montgomery Ward and Kennecott. Numerous issues were unchanged.

Aside from the rail news, the torpedoing of a U. S. destroyer off the New Jersey coast accentuated to market followers the U-boat menace in the Atlantic and tended to offset bulletins telling of the United Nations halting the Japanese drive in Java. Publication of the treasury's huge tax program acted as a restraining influence in some cases.

Boardrooms derived some satisfaction from the federal reserve summary showing loans to industry, commerce and agriculture of member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Feb. 25 recorded a further increase of $13,000,000. The total for this barometer was $6,902,000,000.

Notice also was taken of the New York Reserve Bank's survey estimating department store sales for the metropolis and Brooklyn in February were up 16 per cent from the like 1941 month. The year-to-year upturn in January amounted to 31 per cent.

ASKS DOUBLING OF INCOME TAX

Morgenthau Calls For Boost In Levies Against Little Fellow In New Program.

ging other so-called loopholes in present laws.

The treasury requested authority to collect part of the individual income taxes at the source—up to 10 per cent of the taxable portion of salaries. Treasury officials said this withholding form of collection might be put into effect next July 1 which would result in most taxpayers paying on two years' taxes at the same time—the final two payments of taxes on 1941 income in addition to the levy on current earnings.

Under the treasury's new proposals, a married persons with two dependents having a net income of $3,000 would pay $118 income tax, compared with $58 under the present law. A single person with the same income would pay $470, compared with the present $221.

The pocketbooks of all Americans, except the very poor, would be hit by the administration's new taxes. Persons in the lower and middle income brackets would bear the brunt of the increases in individual taxes for two reasons. The rates on the wealthy already are high and treasury experts also figured that anti-inflationary aims of the program could be attained only by "mopping up" part of the surplus earnings of persons with incomes under $15,000.

Morgenthau warned that the United States is confronted with "a grave threat of inflation."

"We should, therefore, tax so as to withdraw the greatest possible volume of purchasing power at this time, when money incomes are high and the quantity of goods for civilian use, is shrinking day by day because of the demands of our war effort," he said.. "The way to prevent inflation is to prevent people from engaging in the futile effort to buy more goods than can be produced."

The treasury secretary recommended that congress also raise another $2,000,000,000 more a year by extending the social security program and payments. The proposed new taxes and social security payments would increase federal revenues by more than $9,000,000,000 a year and reach the goal of $27,000,000,000 set by President Roosevelt in his budget message.

Morgenthau reiterated opposition to a general sales tax because "it bears disproportionately on the low income groups whose incomes are almost wholly spent on consumer goods" and "increases prices and makes price control more difficult."

Personal exemptions for income tax purposes and normal tax rates for both individuals and corporations would not be changed. The surtax rates on individual incomes would be increased sharply. Excess profits and corporation taxes would be increased and a war surtax added.

The earned income credit on individual returns would be abolished.

Enactment of the treasury's program still would leave a deficit of $39,800,000,000 in the 1943 fiscal year, beginning next July 1, when war expenditures alone will reach an estimated $56,000,000,000.

Even if all the administration's tax proposals were effected, the treasury would have to borrow more than $3,000,000,000 a month to finance the war.

Would Deduct Tax From Your Paycheck

WASHINGTON—(AP)—You'll be finding part of your federal income tax deducted from your paycheck by your employer pretty soon, if congress approves a suggestion made today by Secretary Morgenthau.

The treasury head said such "collection at the source" probably would be necessary for the "convenience" of the taxpayer, and also to stop him from spending his money in some inflationary way before tax time rolls around. The secretary asked congress to give him the authority to start the plan whenever he thought necessary and in any amount up to 10 per cent of a paycheck after allowance of credits for dependents.
